

Beatrix Farrand Society, Website Report– May 2012

Our website includes over 70 pages and growing! This year, with the help of Dick Habermann and Lorna White, we were able to add PayPal to the webpage so people could make a donation or join/renew their membership online. The donation form was also updated. Exhibitions has been added to the menu and will feature annual exhibits at Garland Farm. Carolyn Hollenbeck is working on updating the Master Gardener page with information and images on the Terrace Garden Project.

My focus this year is to update the website. Among other things I would like to increase the width of the page giving us more room for images/text and shortening the length of the pages, redoing image captions, adding an option for adjustable font sizes which users may select, adding a “fat footer” to each page which will serve as a site map, and a host of other housekeeping items. I will also be looking for images of Garland Farm and the various activities that take place there. I welcome any images, ideas and suggestions for making improvements to the website.
